Festival Promises Fun for All – Countdown Begins to Labor Day

by Patti Brothers

The city's 52nd Annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival is almost here. The festival starts Friday, September 1 and goes through Monday, September 4. If the wishes of all are granted, bright sunny days will be the background for this year's festival!

The festival culminates a year of planning by an independent, all-volunteer committee and the participation and involvement of hundreds of citizens, businesses and organizations throughout the city. Festival proceeds benefit the many city service organizations that operate the festival booths.

Toss and turn on the many carnival rides or twist and shout to the music of the area's top bands. Stroll through the carnival and visit the many booths and savor some of the tremendous variety of foods and goodies. Browse the photo exhibit and the art show in the Community Center and cheer for local performers at the talent show.

Kids can participate in a variety of Kids Games, sponsored by the Recreation Department and enter their pet in the Pet Show. And don't forget all of those great carnival rides and games!

Be there for all three nights of the Miss Greenbelt Pageant and feel the suspense mount prior to the crowning on Sunday of Little Miss, Junior Miss and Miss Greenbelt for the year 2006-07. Then stroll down to the favorite observation point along Crescent Road to watch the Labor Day Parade on Monday. A detailed schedule of events is included in the special pullout in this paper, which can be saved as a souvenir program. A summary of highlights follows.

The stage will be located in front of the Aquatic and Fitness Center, with nonstop acts throughout the weekend. The carnival will operate in the parking lot of the Roosevelt Center Mall and on the lawn in front of the Community Center (next to the library).

Major events will also occur inside the Community Center and at Braden Field and Schrom Hills Park. In the event of rain (that is a dirty word), stage events, bingo and selected activities will continue in the Community Center.

Getting There

Free shuttle buses leave the lower parking lot on the hour each day to pick up and drop off festival-goers at various locations around the city. Last runs will be timed each night to coincide with the close of the carnival. There is more information on the shuttles in the festival schedule located in the center of this issue. Call 301-345-0147 during the festival for more information.

Friday Festivities

The festival officially opens Friday evening at 7 p.m. on the festival stage where the Greenbelt Police Department Honor Guard presents the colors, Wendy Magill sings the national anthem and area dignitaries are introduced to the audience. Then, after weeks of submissions and the well-guarded final selection, the year's Outstanding Citizen is named and greeted with rounds of applause from the audience plus a reception is held in the Municipal Building immediately following the award.

At about 7:45 p.m., the 2006 Miss Greenbelt Pageant contestants – ages 7 to 19 – will be introduced on stage. They exemplify top qualities in terms of community involvement, academic achievement and interests and

by Virginia Beauchamp

Sundays are days off for U.S. Postal Service workers. But this coming Sunday, August 27, will instead be the day of all days for the new postal facility in Greenbelt – its official grand opening. Between 1 and 4 p.m. the new building at 7600 Ora Glen Drive, just around the corner from Hanover Parkway in Greenbelt East, will officially open its doors to residents, friends and honored guests for a ribbon-cutting ceremony and tour of the facility.

Some of the same folks who turned up for the facility's ground breaking will participate in this week's ceremony – in particular Representative Steny Hoyer, who for years chaired the post office committee for the U.S. House of Representatives, and Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis, both of whom are scheduled to speak.

Representing the postal service, as on the other occasion, will be District Manager Timothy Haney of the Capital Metro District. Damen Owen Hatcher, superintendent of customer services in Greenbelt, will also be present.

Other officials, like Greenbelt City Manager Michael McLaughlin and members of the city council, also plan to be present, as of course will Acting Postmaster of the Greenbelt facility, Galo Tolentino.

Luckily, on this occasion those who were present at the groundbreaking will find far different circumstances. At the earlier event, which took place on February 28, 2005, a snowstorm that began around 10 a.m. had by mid-afternoon covered the ground with snow and blowing snow and an icy wind forced all participants to hurry through the ceremony.

A special Labor Day Festival Program is included in this issue for your convenience. Keep it on hand for a daily schedule of activities.

Julia Eichhorst to Leave Greenbelt for Winchester

by Esther Nguony

After five years as president of the Board of Directors of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI), Julia Eichhorst will step down in September to assume a new position in Winchester, Va. Eichhorst has lived in Greenbelt since 1992 and has served on the board for nine years.

ager of a records processing and disclosure team.

"I'm sad. I never thought I'd be leaving Greenbelt," she said, as tears formed. "I believe I've grown tremendously since I moved to Greenbelt."

Sylvia Lewis, treasurer of GHI, said that Eichhorst had an interest in member welfare and always dreamed of ways the community could improve.

Eichhorst said one of the greatest challenges in her position was budget time at GHI, because the board needed to strike a fair balance between the needs of the co-operative and the members. Of her disappointments, she wished that she had been able to build a self-storage facility for the community for members to rent and store their belongings and to develop limited-equity housing for those who could not afford homes. She regrets that of the couple hundred people who signed up for the bone marrow

Three Brothers Restaurant Celebrates Its 30th Year

by Anju S. Bawa

Thirty years after he and his brothers built the Three Brothers Italian Restaurant into a successful chain, Michael Repole is still spinning pizzas at the original restaurant in the Beltway Plaza Mall.

Repole came to the United States from Rapone, Italy, with his family when he was 16. He and his brothers, Peter and Mario, worked in his father's restaurant in Brooklyn, also called Three Brothers.

"Everybody cooked," Michael said. He learned to cook from his mother and cooked in his father's restaurant.

After his father died following an illness, the brothers moved the business to Greenbelt. "It was an opportunity to expand," Michael said. Mario came first, then Michael and Peter. The Three Brothers chain has grown to 15 restaurants, mostly in Prince George's County and Howard County.

Three Brothers has always been a family business. Melissa Repole, Michael's niece, is in charge of catering. She remembers playing in the restaurant as her family worked.

"Everybody works in the business, even if retired," Melissa said. Her father Peter and Uncle Mario are actively involved in the business, she said. Melissa has chosen Three Brothers for a lifelong career.

Customers at the restaurant said that part of Three Brothers' success has to do with service and part of it has to do with the food.

"We have customers who have come here from day one," Michael said.

Joe LeStrange of Annapolis said he had been coming to the restaurant since 1981. He likes the freshness of the food and the great service. His favorites are Where's the Youth?

We are looking forward to this year's Labor Day Festival in Old Greenbelt; however, we were disappointed not to see more opportunities for Greenbelt youth to be represented. We are hoping to see more of our young people highlighted in this year's events, especially in the talent show and evening events.

We are also looking forward to this year's Pooch Plunge at Greenbelt pool.

Thanks to everyone helping to make these events successful.

Local Dems Busy At/after Festival

by Pat Unger, President, E&FR Democratic Club

The Executive Board of the Eleanor & Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club of Greenbelt will meet at 7 p.m. on Sunday, August 27 at 7021 Mathew Street. Members who cannot attend should call Lyn Doyle on 301-441-2585. The board will make final plans for the group's traditional participation in the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival.

As it has for the past 30 years, the club will sell funnel cakes throughout the weekend. Members who could give two hours may call Doyle at the number above.

On Saturday, September 2 the booth will be staffed by members of the Maryland State and Prince George's Young Democrats, with this group sharing the proceeds.

Other activities are planned relative to the Democratic Primary election set for Tuesday, September 12. Next to the funnel cake booth, a Maryland Democratic Party Information Booth will be open all weekend. Materials will be available from many local, county and state contests – from school board to U. S. Senate. Candidates will stop by to meet voters and will march in the parade on Monday, September 4. The information booth also needs workers, who should call Patricia Unger, 301-474-1052, to reserve a two-hour slot.

Meanwhile, a final day of canvassing will be held on Saturday, August 26 across the county. Helpers are welcome for Legislative Districts 21, 22 (Greenbelt), 23 (Bowie) and other parts of the county. A briefing will begin at 10 a.m., at Field Headquarters, 4351 Garden City Drive (Epilepsy Foundation Building) in Landover. For additional information, call Marlon Marshall or Sarah Martin at 301-306-4411 or show up wearing comfortable shoes.

After Primary

After the primary, the club will hold its first meeting of the 2006 -07 year on Friday, September 15 at 7:30 p.m., in the Terrace Room of the Greenbriar Community Building at 7600 Hanover Parkway. The guest speaker will be 5th District Congressman Steny H. Hoyer. Program Chair Sandra Eichbaum will have additional speakers to announce shortly.

Anyone wishing to receive the electronic newsletter from the Democratic Club may go to www.RooseveltClub.com to sign up.

Note: A judicial hearing on Friday, August 25, is expected to render a final decision on "early voting" in Maryland for the 2006 elections.

5th Jazz Concert Outdoors Is Alex Martin's Farewell

by Eileen Peterson

Jazz Under the Stars returns to Roosevelt Center for its fifth annual concert on Saturday, August 26, presenting two diverse styles of music, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Smile Music

Jazz for Fun features George Oakley and Nick Lipkowski. Saxophonist Oakley is owner of Garrett Park Music School; Lipkowski, from Chicago, is a guitarist with a graduate degree in music from Howard University who received Downbeat Magazine's Outstanding Student Musical Performance Award for a recording with the University Jazz Ensemble. A teacher, he is published in the current issue of the Jazz Education Journal. Both are regular performers at local jazz clubs; they appeared together here in last year's festival as part of a quartet.

South American Sounds

Alex Martin has played guitar on Tuesday nights at the New Deal Café for two years. This is his last scheduled appearance here; new opportunities will absent him from regular stints at the Café.

A native of Rennes, Brittany (France), Martin has studied with jazz guitar legend Gene Bertonicini and former Thelonious Monk trumpeter Ray Copeland.

At 7:45 p.m. Saturday night, he brings his Quarteto Brasileiro to the outdoor stage here. Vocalist Inês Figueiredo, from Fortaleza, performed in northern Brazil venues before moving to this area; a native of São Paulo, drummer Roberto Berimbau plays with Thievery Corporation and pianist Wayne Wilentz.

Bassist Leonardo Lucini, from Rio de Janeiro, played with many of the top names in Brazilian jazz and popular music groups before moving to this country. He performs in area venues, both leading the group Origem with his brother drummer Alejandro and as a sideman in other groups. He is the orchestra director at Hyattsville Middle School for Performing Arts.

The seven-year series of free outdoor concerts have been produced by the New Deal Café under the coordination of Music Director Richard McMullin, now president of the New Deal Café cooperative. The concerts are sponsored by Friends of New Deal Café Arts (FONDCA) with funds from the City of Greenbelt, the Prince George's Arts Council and Prince George's County.

In case of rain, the concert will move inside the Café.

Following the outdoor concert, various musicians will gather in the Café for an open jazz jam.

City Organizations To Receive $130,000

Prince George's County Councilmember Douglas J.J. Peters has designated three Greenbelt programs to receive special appropriation grants from his office. They are among a group of 13 such organizations in the 4th county council district named in the Supplemental Budget for Fiscal Year 2006 to receive a total of $280,000.

The School Resource Officer Program under the City of Greenbelt will receive $80,000. Under this program, which originated here, city police officers are assigned to provide safety at local schools.

Another city program, Greenbelt CARES, will receive $25,000.

The Greenbelt Arts Center, a nonprofit citizen organization, will also receive $25,000, Peters said. "I know these grants will help supplement the budgets of these important groups," Peters commented, as he made his announcement.

Computer Geeks Call for Labor Day Help

For those interested in the new Greenbelt Computer Club a/k/a "The Geeks," the club has reserved a booth on Information Day, Saturday, September 2 between the Mother & Child Statue and the Co-op (where the Greenbelt Internet Access Cooperative, GIAC, booth has always been).

As the club is new, it really needs people to help at the information booth, to set-up, to staff and take down the booth.

Set-up is at 9:30 a.m. Staffing is planned for one-hour blocks from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., with take-down between 4 and 4:30. It works best to have at least two people at the booth. Members and friends of the former GIAC are needed to volunteer for one hour.

Those curious about the club can come volunteer for an hour and learn what has been done and what is planned for the next couple of months.

Those who can volunteer are asked to send an email to campm@greenbelt.com with the time(s) they are available.

New Community Action Group Gets Involved

by Mary Moien

More than 50 concerned residents filled the back room of the New Deal Café on August 8 to discuss the Al Gore movie “An Inconvenient Truth” and the implications of global warming. The meeting was organized and facilitated by Lore Rosenthal of Simplicity Groups of Maryland and Greenbelt environmental activists Steve and Janet Kane. A second meeting is planned for Tuesday August 29 at 7 p.m. at the New Deal Café.

Steve Kane reported enthusiastically: “Our meeting was a rousing success! Fifty-five very inspired people attended. There was a very special highly spirited energy in the room that night. Everyone had much to say; there were dozens of great ideas of what residents in Greenbelt could do to help reduce greenhouse emissions as well as how volunteers could educate others and help them move toward action to reduce global warming.”

Due to the large size of the group, five smaller groups were formed to discuss the impact of the movie and to brainstorm on ideas that Greenbelters could employ in their daily lives. Each group reported back on their ideas ranging from walking more often rather than driving to organizing a campaign to contact senators and the President. A more inclusive list of proposed activities will be in a future article.

Representatives of several organizations were in attendance including the Sierra Club, GHI’s Sustainable Practices and Development Committee and the Chesapeake Climate Action Network.

Following the meeting some first interest areas were proposed by Steve Kane including:

- Education: working with children in schools or other organizations
- Making a show/video with Greenbelt Access TV
- Writing articles, weekly tips for Greenbelt News Review
- Working with churches
- Organizing discussion circles
- Working with the food co-op and other local businesses
- Working with GHI and specifically with the Sustainable Practices and Development Committee
- Working with citizens in getting alternative sources of electricity and fuel
- Working with the city government and other levels of government on global warming issues
- Working with statewide and regional efforts (Sierra Club, Chesapeake Climate Action Network, etc.)

Steve Kane is working on developing a Global Warming Community Action Guide, “not just for us in Greenbelt but for other communities to use to help them reduce greenhouse emissions. After all, time is short and I believe we have to replicate our successes in other communities.”

The meeting on August 29 is open to all interested people, not just those who attended the first meeting.

These are the only qualifications needed to join the current issues discussion group on Friday mornings, from 10 a.m. to noon. The meetings are informal, with any and all issues brought before the group discussed, including the big “taboos” of religion and politics.

They will then take audience questions on these and other constituent concerns. Dr. Bing Inocencio, professor at the University of Maryland University College will moderate.

Confirmed participants include candidates from the three districts and three parties, Democratic, Republican and Green: 4th – Donna Edwards and George McDermott (D), 5th – Steven Warner (Gr), 8th – Deborah Vollmer (D), Gerard Giblin (Gr), Augustus Alzona and Dan Zubairi (R). Also invited are incumbents Albert Wynn, Steny Hoyer, Chris Van Hollen and other challengers.

BARC Opens New Poultry Facility

A new poultry facility has opened at Henry Wallace Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC). On Wednesday, August 16 Congressman Steny H. Hoyer dedicated the 28,100 square foot facility, which will be both a production and hatchery building. It will replace about a dozen old buildings built in the 1930s that are in poor condition and obsolete.

Aware of the pressing need to move forward, Hoyer joined Senators Paul Sarbanes and Barbara Mikulski to secure needed funding. The new building features individual wings to house chickens and turkeys. It includes a hatchery, laboratory, animal surgery suite and necropsy room, along with feed mixing and storage space.

A program on the mystery of what is causing the disappearance of the wild rice marshes on the Patuxent River will be the season's first program in the Audubon Society free monthly series. People are invited to join members of the Prince George's Audubon Society and Patuxent Bird Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, September 12 at the National Wildlife Visitor Center for a slide presentation by Naturalist Greg Kearns: "Of Rails & Rice: The Delicate Ecology of Wild Rice Marshes on the Patuxent River." The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service National Wildlife Visitor Center is at 10901 Scarlet Tanager Loop in Laurel.

An expert photographer, Kearns will shed light on vanishing stands of wild rice and efforts to reverse it and the effect on the Sora Rail, an elusive bird of the marsh, and other waterfowl. Kearns is a park naturalist at Patuxent River Park in Croom as well as a nationally-renowned expert on the Sora Rail.

Do you feel restless, like you have lost your peace of mind?

That we don't know what to do and where to find satisfaction? Our Lord has the answer to all our problems, as He tells us that, "... He guides to Himself those who turn to Him in penitence, those who believe, and whose hearts find satisfaction in the remembrance of God. For without doubt in the remembrance of God do hearts find satisfaction."

Experience World Hosting a Student

Hosting a high school exchange student is like bringing the world to one’s doorstep. Foundation for Intercultural Travel (F.I.T.), a State Department-designated exchange visitor program, is currently matching international students, ages 15 to 18, with host families in this area. Families of all types are eligible to host.

Students arrive approximately one week before school starts and bring their own spending money for clothes, entertainment and other expenses. They have their own medical insurance. Most importantly, they bring a desire to become part of an American family.

Host families agree to include students as family members. Some students stay one semester, others for a full academic year. All students speak English.

For more information call 877-439-7862.

abilities in sports and the arts.

At 9 p.m., “The Nighthawks” return to the Labor Day stage and fill the nighttime air with their wonderful, world-renowned rhythm and blues. They open the festival on the right note.

Carnival Rides

Friday evening the carnival starts its four-day run of rides designed for all ages from toddlers to teens (and beyond). Ride a horse (wooden, of course) on the carousel, whirl and twirl on the many thrilling rides and get the “view from the top” on the traditional Ferris wheel. Toddlers and infants can also grab the wheel, fly the plane and bang the gong on the “kiddee” rides.

Bracelets which allow a wearer to ride all rides on Saturday and Sunday afternoon for one price are being sold again this year. Discount vouchers for the bracelets are available at the Greenbelt Co-op until noon on Friday, September 1. A bracelet is only good for one day. It cannot be used both days; a new bracelet will need to be purchased. Discount coupons for the ride bracelets will also be available throughout Greenbelt, including city offices, the recreation and youth centers and businesses in old Greenbelt and Greenbelt East.

Carnival Booths

The carnival booths sponsored by community organization are, for many of the groups, their main fund-raisers of the year. The booths provide an opportunity to talk with neighbors, volunteers and visitors and to become acquainted with many of the activities and programs that make up this great community. A complete listing of booths and their menu selections is in the festival pullout. There’s the traditional bingo, always popular, as well as the used book sale, sponsored by the Greenbelt Elementary School PTA. Other popular booths return, including the Zoo Dip, bean bag and ball throwing. Kids can have their faces painted, have a temporary tattoo applied or have their fortunes told. You can make a button or create with paint and learn about public and traffic safety.

Funnel cakes are a Labor Day Festival tradition as evidenced by the long lines at this booth. Maryland’s Chesapeake Bay is honored with crab cakes and fish sandwiches. But the festival food is far-ranging, including cheese steaks from Philadelphia, Cajun chicken sandwiches by way of New Orleans, Italian and Polish sausages and gyros, fajitas, bratwurst and other exotic-sounding but now familiar delicacies.

Round out the offerings with pit beef and turkey sandwiches, baked potatoes, fruit cups, many types of drinks from Frappacinos to smoothies, sodas, iced tea, lemonade, herbal chillers and even bottled water. Desserts are not left out – try sundaes, cookies, ice cream bars, milkshakes and floats. Traditional fare is present with hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries and of course pizza. There is literally something for everyone. Leave your diet at home!

Sporting Contests

The Greenbelt Recreation Department plans and coordinates tournaments and sports activities including softball, tennis, table tennis, T-ball, volleyball, horseshoes, golf and races during the Labor Day weekend. Check the pullout for details and times of events. The department also coordinates the annual Larry K. Noel 15K foot race on Sunday at 5 p.m. and a 3K fun run at 5:10 p.m. Packet pickup and registration for both events is from 4 to 4:45 p.m. at the Youth Center.

The exhibitions of paintings, sculpture and photos are popular ways for visitors to spend a portion of their time at the Labor Day Festival. There are many types of artistic work on display by adults and children in the art and photo shows in the galleries inside the Community Center. Entries are accepted on Friday and the galleries are open to the public Saturday through Monday. These shows are judged by professional artists and photographers and awards are given in each category.

Information Day

On Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. many community organizations and businesses will operate tables in Roosevelt Center to provide information to the community about their causes and products. The tables give small groups a chance to reach the public without operating a four-day booth. There are no sales at the tables but information and opinions are freely distributed.

Craft Show

The craft show is in its second year at the festival and is on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Roosevelt Center. Bring your wallet, buy lots of early holiday gifts and perhaps a little something for yourself.

Saturday: Kids’ Day

Saturday is Kids’ Day with games, events and entertainment especially designed with children in mind. Games for all ages from crawlers competing in the diaper derby to tests of skill for older children begin at 9 a.m. on the front lawn of the Community Center. The Children’s Pet Show is also on Saturday morning. All types of pets are welcome and prizes will be awarded in many categories. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. on the lawn in front of the Community Center.

Opening the entertainment on stage at 1 p.m. on Saturday is “24U” (pronounced two-for-you) which returns to the festival with their blend of tunes from Patsy Cline to Celine Dion to Elvis. It’s a great performance by a duo that encourages the audience to enjoy themselves and get lost in familiar melodies. At 2 p.m. the New Deal Café will sponsor a Celebrity Watermelon Eating Contest in Roosevelt Center. Come see some of your esteemed neighbors show their true colors as watermelon eaters. Watch them slurp their way to the championship!

Joe Pipik and his Backpack Puppets will entertain kids of all ages with great far-away tales and adventures from 3 to 4 p.m. He will be followed by Lulu the Clown who will charm the audience with lots of funny antics and clowning around from 4 to 5 p.m.

The 2005 Miss Greenbelts will be on hand to host the contest events that lead up to the crowning of the 2006 representatives.

Then Magic Mike (well known to New Year’s Eve attendees) will mystify the audience with his great hand-is-quicker-than-the-eye moves from 5 to 6 p.m. Home-grown entertainers take the stage at 6 p.m. when the Talent Show unfolds. Come see neighbors perform and see the talent they’ve been hiding! The Miss Greenbelt contestants present their own talents beginning at 7:15 p.m., followed by the return of Diamond Alley to the Labor Day stage. Don’t miss this great group with their wonderful sounds spanning the last few decades. They even perform Bohemian Rhapsody by Queen.

Sunday: Family Day

Sunday is billed as Family Day with entertainment appealing to all members of the family. The carnival and rides continue and there are a variety of acts on the festival stage. At 1 p.m., Cosine makes its debut performance at the Festival. This great group performs jazz, rhythm and blues, hip hop, top 40 and fusion music. At 3 p.m., John Hill, who has performed at prior festivals and New Year celebrations, drives down Route 95 to take the stage and make it easy for festival goers to lie back and enjoy a Sunday afternoon, as he fills the carnival area with his beautiful voice and skilled guitar playing. The art and photo show awards will be given out at 5 p.m. on the festival stage. The Greenbelt Arts Center will perform their Shakespeare on the Green performance on the Arts Center stage at 5 p.m.

The crowning of Little Miss, Junior Miss and Miss Greenbelt begins at 6 p.m. The stage presentation is sponsored by Capitol Cadillac. Each contestant has her own sponsor. Questions are posed to the contestants as the final portion of the contest. The announcement of the queens is ultimately the most exciting moment of the weekend for many of the festival goers. At 9 p.m., “Wayne Brown and 2nd Conspiracy” will bring decades of music to the Labor Day stage. Go back in time with this great group.

Parade

Greenbelt has long been known for its Labor Day parade and this year promises to be the best one ever. Area dignitaries will attend as they have in the past. The 2006 Outstanding Citizen will be the parade marshal and members of the city council

New Bio-Defense Agency May Call BARC Home

by Barbara Hopkins

The U. S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS), in conjunction with the U. S. Departments of Agriculture (USDA) and Health and Human Services, is considering an area of the Henry Wallace Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) and 17 other sites around the country as a location for a new National Bio- and Agro-Defense Facility (NBAF).

The BARC site represents the only multi-state proposal, Dr. Phyllis Johnson, USDA area director, told the Greenbelt City Council when she met with them in a worksession on August 16.

Johnson said the Mid-Atlantic Bio-Ag Defense Consortium, a body comprised of representatives from five states, USDA, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the Department of Defense, state departments of agriculture and medical and veterinary schools, submitted for consideration an area of BARC that is contiguous with highly secured sites belonging to other government agencies.

NBAF Mission

The DHS website says the NBAF mission will be designed to “enhance and protect the country’s agriculture and public health” through study of “high-consequence biological threats” involving foreign animals and animal diseases transmissible to humans. Johnson listed plant diseases as another area of focus.

This mission is “a natural complement” to what BARC already does, said Johnson. Other assets she believes the BARC site offers include convenient access to transportation, its own water and treatment facility and access to the public water supply, an available work force and proximity to other relevant research institutions.

Another aspect of the NBAF mission will be to develop advanced testing and evaluation procedures and vaccines to defend the country against the studied biological threats.

At this time, Johnson said, it is not known what level of bio-safety equipment the facility will require but she briefly described BioSafety Levels (BSL)-3 and -4. She said BARC already has Bio Safety Level-3 areas and that Level-4 labs, those requiring special design features such as negative air flow and special protective clothing for workers, are built within the BSL-3 areas to achieve even higher control. In Maryland, Fort Detrick in Frederick already has BSL-4 areas; BSL-3 facilities can be found at the National Institutes of Health and some FDA facilities as well as at BARC.

Economic Impact

The proposed facility would create over 500 jobs, employing over 200 scientists and 300 to 400 highly trained support staff, Johnson said. It would involve a $500 million construction project and could spin off products for the vaccine and biotechnology industries. County Executive Jack Johnson has sent a letter of support for having the project at BARC, said Dr. Johnson. A representative of the state department of economic development attended the City Council work-session but did not speak.

Selection Process

Johnson said 29 Expressions of Interest in the facility had been submitted to DHS last March and that 18 sites were selected and announced publicly on August 9. More information will be requested and reviewed about the selected sites before the list is narrowed to three sites. An Environmental Impact Statement will then be completed for each of these.

This process will include public meetings. Johnson assured council there would be plenty of chance for public input. Public acceptance of a high-containment facility is one of the criteria set forth by DHS for the facility.

Johnson anticipates DHS will provide the short list of sites under consideration by late this year with the final selection of the site announced around March 2008.

will ride in the Fire Department’s historic fire truck. There will be marching bands, fife and drum corps, bagpipe bands and more. There will also be floats, Smokey the Bear, the ERHS Pom-Pom girls, the Miss Greenbelt pageant participants and other varied acts parading down Crescent Road from Buddy Attick Lake Park to the reviewing stand at Southway, beginning promptly at 10 a.m. The Lions Club is again sponsoring the Kids’ Bikes & Trikes entry which takes place in Roosevelt Center at 9:30 a.m., just before the parade. Don’t forget the traditional “Luncheon on the Lawn” at the Greenbelt Community Church immediately following the parade.

The festival again hosts a nationally known group from Hollywood, “Shoe Suede Blues,” featuring Peter Tork. This group, with its wonderful blues, oldies and Monkees tunes should not be missed, especially by fans of “The Monkees.” The group will perform from noon to 3 p.m. on the festival stage. Bring Monkees memorabilia to be autographed. And again, don’t forget the camera. The presentation of the parade awards will be during “Shoe Suede Blues” first band break. The “Zach Sweeney” band returns to the festival and will take the Labor Day stage (after “Shoe Suede Blues”) to continue the afternoon of great blues. Come down to the stage for great sounds from this talented group.

The carnival midway is open until approximately 4 p.m. The Greenbelt Museum will be open on Monday after the parade until the closing of the festival.

Organization/Funding

The Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee begins meeting soon after the end of this year’s festival to plan the next one. The committee is always in need of volunteers and monetary support. The committee is now seeking volunteers for next year’s festival, even as this one is going on. To volunteer, make a donation, provide a suggestion or even file a complaint, stop by the Festival Information Booth directly across from the stage.

Have a great time at the festival!

Fabulous Sounds Will Again Be Showcased on Festival Stage

by Patti Brothers

The stage at this year’s Labor Day Festival will host some of the area’s best bands as well as a special one from Hollywood.

The Nighthawks

The Nighthawks return to the stage and will open the festival on a fine note. They will perform on Friday night, September 1 and will have the stage and crowd rocking with their great rhythm and blues. The four-piece blues band has been performing all over the world for almost 30 years. They are undoubtedly the most popular blues band in the Washington, D.C. area. Two of the four members are from the original group – Mark Wenner, lead vocalist and harp and Pete Ragusa, vocals/backup vocals and drums. Johnny Castle, vocals and guitars and guitarist Paul Bell recently joined the group.

In the 1970s the band began criss-crossing the country, playing clubs and colleges then dominated by the sounds of country rock and disco. Touring pioneers, they spread their version of roots rock, soul, rock-a-billy and blues that was hardly the standard sound. They acquired a reputation as a solid back-up band and gained national respect as the support act for Muddy Waters, Otis Rush, Big Walter Horton and other legends. They are now the number one bar band in the greater Washington, D.C. area and fill every venue to capacity.

“The Nighthawks” have honed their craft over the last few decades. They are, individually, talented musicians in their respective fields but they are very comfortable with each other, which is very evident to those who see and hear them perform. The Saturday night festival stage (and crowd) will surely be rockin.’

Diamond Alley

On Saturday night, September 2, the stage will host “Diamond Alley,” one of Washington, D.C.’s most popular groups, a five-piece dance/rock and variety

The Nighthawks take to the stage on Friday, September 1 from 9 p.m. to Midnight. The popular group is well-known in the D.C. area for their crowd-pleasing rhythm and blues.

Diamond Alley will play on Saturday, September 2 from 9 p.m. to Midnight. The group is best known throughout the Mid-Atlantic region for their unusual vocal talent and audience rapport.

band performing a diverse mix of contemporary and classic hits as well as original tunes. “Diamond Alley” is best known throughout the Mid-Atlantic region for their unusual vocal talent (all five members sing), outstanding live performances and audience rapport. This group is one of the few bands that perform tunes by Queen. The band has received numerous awards and has worked with groups such as “The Rembrants,” Eddie Money, Nils Lofgren, Roger Clinton, “The Four Tops,” “The Coasters” and Mick Fleetwood of “Fleetwood Mac.” Band members are lead vocalist/keyboardist Kris Fath, bassist David Oliver, guitarist Marc Musser, keyboardist/saxophonist Bill Baker and drummer Doug Macuch. Hold onto your seats for great Saturday night sounds!

Artist to Demonstrate And Sign His Work

Greenbelt Artist Paul Downs will sign his work and demonstrate how he makes his unique “art with a natural twist” on Saturday, August 26 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the John Hollingsworth Art Gallery of the Patuxent Research Refuge’s National Wildlife Visitor Center in Laurel. Downs’ work will be on display in the gallery during August.

A lifelong resident of Greenbelt, Downs spent his youth exploring and bonding with the natural world in the woods near his home. For the past 15 years he has been molding natural elements such as clay, berries, lichens and fallen branches into “stick art” that reflects a connection with the natural world. Inspiration from the works of Emerson and Thoreau, plus the readings of Native American history and beliefs, are reflected in his art.

The National Wildlife Visitor Center is located off Powder Mill Road between the B/W Parkway and Md. Rte. 197, south of Laurel. For information call 301-497-5763 or visit <http://patuxent.fws.gov>.

Parisi Recognized by AmeriCorps

Greenbelt resident Joe Parisi successfully completed a year of national service with Volunteer Maryland, an AmeriCorps program of the Governor’s Office. In recognition of his service to the citizens of Maryland, Parisi was awarded a Governor’s citation for his efforts on behalf of the City of Greenbelt.

One of the city’s key initiatives, the Greenbelt Assistance in Living (GAIL) program provides information and support to enable seniors to remain in their homes. Under the auspices of GAIL, the Brown Bag Food Program distributes donated dry goods, toiletries, produce and meats to 48 homebound seniors once a month. Parisi coordinated the Brown Bag Food Program’s volunteers as they made deliveries to Greenbelt’s senior population. He also created a number of new program materials, including a policies and procedures guide to the City of Greenbelt volunteer program.

Volunteer Maryland coordinators are members of AmeriCorps, the national service program, who commit a year of service to the community in exchange for a small living stipend and an education award. Applications for the next program year are currently being accepted. For more information, visit www.volunteermaryland.org or call 410-767-6203.

Adult Bereavement Workshop Offered

Hospice of the Chesapeake’s Spiritual and Bereavement Care Center is offering a healing workshop for adults, facilitating remembrance of lost loved ones through sharing memories, photos, music and readings.

The group will meet Saturday, September 9 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 8724 Jericho City Drive in Landover. There is a registration fee except for families whose family member was cared for by Hospice of the Chesapeake. To register call Roberta Rook at 301-499-4500.

Buy the Right AC Unit –
Keep Your Cool Longer

The Read Stuff: Why Cuddletime Matters

by Kim Kash

Sometimes there’s no getting around it: you need a new air conditioner and you need one now. To that end, the Community Education Planning Work Group of the GHI Sustainable Design and Practices Ad Hoc Committee can help in making this buying decision and save you money while protecting the environment. These goals are linked. The less electricity used this summer, the more money saved. Reducing electricity use also helps reduce pollution and emission of global warming gases.

Math of ACs

If you’re going to sink your hard-earned cash into a new air conditioner or AC system, you’ll need to do a bit of math; but it won’t hurt much. Here are the factors to take into account:

Examine the size (i.e., how many BTUs – the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit) needed for a room AC unit. Consider the dimensions of the area to cool and the ways in which the area is used.

Based on size alone, an air conditioner generally needs 20 BTUs for each square foot of living space. For instance, to air condition a room 15 feet wide and 20 feet long, calculate 15 x 20 x 20 BTU = 6,000 BTUs. For GHI’s small bedrooms, 5,000 BTUs is a good fit.

Size is important: an oversized air conditioner is less efficient and in fact is less effective in removing humidity from a room. Instead, the oversized unit will produce a room that feels cool but clammy. A properly sized unit will remove humidity as it cools.

On the other hand, a unit that is too small will run constantly on a hot day and still not adequately cool the area.

Calculating BTU requirements becomes more complicated when you consider an area’s use. For instance, if you use passive cooling techniques such as shading, ventilation or vegetation, your BTU estimate may be lower. Likewise, your BTU needs increase with such factors as size of the household, frequent use of heat-producing appliances or summer humidity levels.

An appliance dealer will use these factors to adjust your estimated BTU requirement. For most efficient cooling, choose a unit with a capacity within 5 percent of that estimate.

When choosing between units with similar prices, capacities and features, energy efficiency should be the deciding factor. A more energy-efficient unit may be more expensive to buy but ultimately more economical.

Energy Efficiency

High efficiency appliances – air conditioners, refrigerators and other appliances – have lower operating costs and can pay back the extra purchase cost many times over during their lifetimes.

All room air conditioners bear bright yellow EnergyGuide labels providing information on energy efficiency. Congress mandated use of the EnergyGuide labels in 1975 when it passed the Energy Policy and Conservation Act. The label displays an energy efficiency rating (EER) in large black numbers.

The more efficient the appliance, the higher is its EER rating. The minimum EER (energy efficiency rating) required by federal law is 9.7 and the most efficient units have an EER of 12 or higher.

In order to compare one window unit with another, look at the information below the EER on the EnergyGuide. The label actually compares the unit you’re looking at with the EERs for comparable room air conditioners. The label also features a cost/use chart for calculating the cost of operating the appliance based on local electricity rates and expected hours of use.

Central air conditioners are rated according to their Seasonal Energy Efficiency Ratio (SEER). Like the EER, the higher the SEER, the more efficient the system.

To compare the efficiency of two units with equal cooling capacity, take the difference in SEERs and divide by the larger SEER. For example, if system A has a SEER of 6 and system B has a SEER of 8, system B will provide the same amount of cooling as system A while consuming 25 percent less energy (8 - 6 = 2; 2/8 = .25).

Those preferring to calculate their own capacity needs can send away for a “Cooling Load Estimation Form” from: The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, IL 60606.

Finally, compare warranties and maintenance agreements when buying an air conditioner.

By the time my son, Joseph Abelardo, celebrated his first birthday last weekend he had spent many hours browsing through board books, listening to nursery rhymes, being lulled to sleep with stories and going to the Greenbelt Library with daddy and mommy for his Tuesday morning half hour “Cuddletime.”

When Greenbelt Librarian Virginia (Ginny) Moore rings the bell for the session, she greets each infant accompanied by a parent or caregiver by the door, remembering the names of the more regular ones. She beams when she sees families, including grandparents, come to Cuddletime together. Joseph Abelardo has been in her class since April and has gradually grown accustomed to the pace and format of the program.

Moore starts off with a “hello, everybody” song, and then inserts each child’s name in sequentially staggered order. Nobody in the group seems to mind the length of the song even when the room is packed with 15 infants, plus parents and caregivers.

Then we go through some nursery rhymes with special themes. Some of the themes we’ve had in the past were trains, animals, mother, father, ABCs. This week we had rhymes about numbers. Joseph Abelardo liked being bounced from daddy’s and mommy’s laps as we recited “Hickory Dickory Dock,” “From Wibbleton to Wobbleton,” and a couple of other number-themed rhymes.

Moore reads two to three featured books with big bold print which everyone in the room can see and read together. One of Joseph Abelardo looks at the camera as he listens to Daddy read a book to him. Ginny Moore of the Greenbelt Library leads the reading at Cuddletime.

Joseph Abelardo’s favorites was “Freight Train.”

Then we are ready for a stepping/walking forward and backward with the babies to the beat of accompanying music.

Next we each get a featured board book appropriate to the infants’ ages. Most of them are books which we sometimes borrow after the session. Joseph Abelardo liked “My Fuzzy Safari Babies,” a book to touch and feel.

Infants return the books in exchange for a shaker which they get from a basket. Our little ones shake them to the beat of another catchy tune. Moore makes the rounds to each infant in the room.

We end the session singing “goodbye, everybody” after which we mention each infant’s name as we did at the start.

As we say our goodbyes, the more mobile infants crawl or walk to a cabinet full of books which are made available for browsing.

Through the months we have witnessed the development of each child we have met at Cuddletime. If we come early for the session, we get a chance to talk to other parents and caregivers and get to know them a little bit more.

In our small apartment close to Greenbelt Lake, we stash several books in our son’s play areas. We also borrow a couple of books, musical CDs and educational videos from the library.

It has become a ritual for Joseph Abelardo to hear his daddy tell the story from memory of “The Very Hungry Caterpillar” when mommy prepares to leave for the gym. Moore would say very often that 20 minutes of reading to our child each day is very important.

For Joseph Abelardo’s birthday, it is easy to guess what mommy and daddy got for his presents – books!

the salads and the subs. And he often uses the restaurant’s catering service.

Roger Johnston of Severna Park had been coming to the restaurant since 1995. He said the food is particularly good here.

Both LeStrange and Johnston work for Swales Aerospace at NASA Goddard Space Flight Center. At lunchtime on Fridays, the restaurant is a favorite of many Goddard employees and contractors, Johnston said.

Just outside the restaurant, the Gourmet Popcorn stand that has been there for 15 years benefits from its location. Claudia Cordero who works at the stand said that customers often come out of Three Brothers to buy popcorn or cotton candy.

Anniversary

Three Brothers celebrated its 30th anniversary by hosting an international pizza-eating championship in the center court of the mall. Michael said 2,000 people came to join in the festivities.

The other restaurants celebrated the anniversary in their own ways. Most of them gave out prizes such as cameras and free pizza for a year, he said.

According to a Three Brothers advertisement, the restaurants have sold more than 2.5 million pizzas in 30 years of business.

Three Brothers will continue to expand, Michael said. The first restaurant outside Maryland will open in Virginia and then on to other parts of the world someday.

The original Three Brothers Italian Restaurant opened in the Beltway Plaza Mall 30 years ago.

Michael Repole learned to make pizza from his mom and he still likes to make it for his customers. He and brothers Peter and Mario opened the first family-owned restaurant.

ALERT!

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad (GVFD&RS) does not telemarket. When they have a drive for funds they sent out mailers.

Recently Greenbelt residents have been receiving calls from persons claiming to be fundraisers for the fire department, leaving the impression they were with the Greenbelt Fire Department.

The GVFD&RS wants to alert everyone these calls are not coming from them and they will not receive any benefit from these solicitations.

SHA Approves Light At Frankfort-Md. 193

Darrell B. Mobley, district engineer with the State Highway Administration (SHA), informed the city by letter on August 2 that a traffic signal will be installed at Frankfort Drive and Greenbelt Road. His letter follows notification by the SHA Office of Traffic and Safety that "full signalization of the intersection" has been approved.

SHA action follows the city's request last April to establish such a light. Although crossing guards facilitate pedestrian movement across the six lanes of busy Greenbelt Road during regular school hours, the city's letter notes no such assistance is provided for students participating in before-school and after-school activities. Crossing guards are also not available during the summer session.

According to Mobley's letter, "the project has a notice to proceed date of February 2007."

For "Simply Jim," Twice Is Nice In Kickball Championship

by Doug Mangum

That was pretty much the consensus from the group of kickballers – most in their 40s – known simply as Remedial Jim. On Thursday, July 20 at Braden Field, the Greenbelt Adult Co-ed Kickball League held its championship round of the 2006 season, a best of three play-off series between the defending champs/number one seed and the number two seed, Donkeys. Simply Jim had gone 13-1 in the regular season, sweeping both games (1-0 and 6-3) against the Donkeys – who were looking for the some payback.

In game number one, the Jimsters jumped in front on a Vinny Osborne home run and increased their margin on a sliding homer by your reporter. Tight defense locked down the Donkeys in a 4-0 victory for the Remedial Jimmies. Then the Donkeys won, also by 4-0, knotting the series at a game apiece. In the deciding game, both teams were tentative and defense dominated. Then, as he had done in almost every big game, Vinny Osborne opened the scoring with a booming home run kick to right field. The Jimmies led 5-1 going into the 7th inning but the no-quit Donkeys fought back and scored three runs with one out. A second out and then with the tying run at second it all ended with Remedial Jim the champs for a second straight year. The Jimmies were led by the son-and-mother combination of Vinny Osborne (offense) and Bridget Osborne (defense) – a short way from Roosevelt Center's own Mother and Child statue.

Thanks to the recreation center for providing such a great outlet and the Director's Cup they give is a great incentive for putting it all on the line. Having our name engraved on the trophy along with that of coach Cindy Osborne-Donn is quite a thrill. Also thanks to the league officials for umpiring all of our games: Brad, J.D. and Jerry. Lastly, thanks to all the fans that endured the season and all three games on that great summer night at good ol' Braden Field.

"Simply Jim" upset the "Donkeys" in a best of three play-off series held on July 20 at Braden Field to win the kickball championship.

This time the weather should be more moderate. And in any event, the program will take place indoors in an air-conditioned building.

Ceremony

Several young people will participate in the opening ceremony. Among them will be 16-year-old Michael Barnes, son of city employee Lisa Adams, who will sing both “The Star Spangled Banner” and “America the Beautiful.”

The color guard of Eleanor Roosevelt High School and the ERHS cheerleaders will also be present. The latter will help in serving refreshments for the occasion.

The one-story brick building has a rear parking lot surrounded by a wall for the protection of post office vehicles and an open parking area along the front façade for customer use. A sidewalk along Ora Glen Drive makes the facility accessible to pedestrians.

A large lobby offers space for display of package materials and merchandise for sale. A long open counter provides working space for customers and a service counter is in the rear.

To the rear of the customer parking lot, toward the north end of the building, a second entrance gives access to a large room housing post office boxes available for rent.

Help for the Anacostia
Helps the Chesapeake

Senators Paul S. Sarbanes (D-Md.) and Barbara A. Mikulski (D-Md.) announced that the Senate has approved legislation which will help facilitate the restoration of the Anacostia River. A provision was included by the two Maryland Senators to the Water Resources Development Act (WRDA) which provides for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to make improvements to the nation’s rivers, ports, harbors and other waterways.

Through cooperative and coordinated efforts significant progress has been made over the past decade to restore the Anacostia watershed, but the job is far from complete.

The provisions in the bill require the Secretary of the Army in coordination with regional government officials to develop and make available to the public a 10-year comprehensive action plan to provide for the restoration and protection of the ecological integrity of the Anacostia River and its tributaries.

“The Anacostia River is one of the most degraded rivers in the Chesapeake Bay watershed and we must increase our efforts to turn this river around,” said Sarbanes. “The overall health of the Chesapeake Bay is dependent upon the health of the waters that flow into it and until we begin to make substantial progress on clean-up of the Anacostia River and other waterways, the health of the Bay will continue to suffer. This legislation will help in our endeavors.”

Excited Patrons Take Up Geocaching Here in Town

by Mary Moien

Margot Anne Kelley was the featured speaker at the Explorations Unlimited monthly presentation on August 11. She discussed geocaching, a treasure-hunting activity where people use hand-held geotracking devices (GPS – global positioning system units) to locate a box that has been buried or hidden. Kelley discussed the history of the game which goes back a number of years to the West Coast.

To test whether the geographic coordinates given out by satellites were accurate, a Washington state man hid some toys and asked his friends to try to find them.

Not only was it successful but people started hiding toys and notes in other locations. Since then it has spread around the world.

Kelley herself has even gone geocaching in Europe. A photography professor in Boston, she has spent her vacations for the last several years visiting geocache locations throughout the country and documenting them in a photographic book. Essays about the locations in her book accompany very beautiful pictures.

After the Explorations Unlimited discussion, the crowd of about 30 participants of all ages was eager to go find a geocache for themselves. For those who had brought devices, Kelley tried to show them how to lock onto a satellite and then enter the coordinates provided for each cache. Some computer websites describe caches throughout the country and give the geographic coordinates.

At the city’s Artful Afternoon on August 6, children had made and hidden a geocache near Greenbelt Lake. They called it “The Beaver’s Honeymoon Cottage.” Friday’s group headed out toward Braden Field, devices in hand, and were last seen starting up the lake path.

Once that cache had been found, some of the more adventuresome headed off to Lake Artemesia to look for another geocache. The scary word for the Lake Artemesia trek was poison ivy – Kelley had indicated that poison ivy was all around and even she was not anxious to go back on that hike.

This was a very successful and very unusual Explorations Unlimited, combining a lecture with a hike. Interest was high and we predict more Greenbelters will be geocaching in the future.

Sisters Amelia and Ryley Komisar-Bury made objects d'arts for the geocaching treasure box.

Above and below are some of the arts and craft objects that filled the treasure box of goodies created by kids and adults at the Artful Afternoon event. The box was then closed and hidden for a geocaching adventure.

Children, Visitors Prepare “Geocaching” Treasures

by Anju Bawa

On Sunday afternoon, August 6, kids and adults alike enjoyed creating little objets d’art that they put in a box and hid near the lake for a high-tech treasure hunt called “geocaching” to take place on Friday, August 11.

Artful Afternoon, a free event, is held on the first Sunday of every month. Usually it features a local artist with a studio at the Community Center. The artist designs a family-oriented event, typically a hands-on arts project often including a lecture and a special feature like a concert, poetry reading or story telling.

Feature Artist

This month’s feature artist was Margot Anne Kelley, a photography artist and teacher at the Art Institute of Boston and author of a book on geocaching. Geocaching is essentially a treasure-hunting game in which a modest treasure is located by using a hand-held global-positioning system (GPS), essentially a high-tech map.

Kelley, who visits family members in the area, said the Artful Afternoon project was an opportunity to combine geocaching and art. She answered an open call for arts instructors to offer arts programs with the Greenbelt Recreation Department, said Nicole DeWald, arts supervisor at the Community Center. The mapping theme was a good way to raise awareness about the city’s landscape, DeWald said.

At the Community Center, adults, parents and kids created necklaces, jewelry and art objects from feathers, beads, bottle caps, yarn and other colorful odds-and-ends.

Students Invited To Perform

Student groups from elementary school through college are invited to participate in a special program on Saturday, September 9 at Justice Auditorium, Northwestern High School, 7000 Adelphi Road in Hyattsville. The program, “A Celebration of Life, in Memory of 9-11,” will begin at 5 p.m.

Depending on the number of performing acts, the program may continue until as late as 9:30 p.m.

Four student groups are already scheduled to perform: The Colours Arts in Education Program, the Northwestern High School Choir, SPLATT Blues Orchestra and the Northwestern High School Band.

Student groups interested in performing will be allotted up to 20 minutes of performance time and are allowed to bring any information to hand out. Performance material must be appropriate and centered on a celebration of life. Only student groups or ensembles will be considered. No individual performers will be accepted.

For information and to register contact Senior Event Director Loughton Sargeant, Senior Northwestern High School Colours Arts in Education Program, 301-454-8388 or at coloursprogram@yahoo.com or www.colours.org.

Participants

Eloise Rubincam of Lanham and Marcie Cain of Greenbelt are two friends who came to enjoy an afternoon together doing arts and crafts. “It is educational, fun and relaxing,” they said.

Colette Chang, 4, created a necklace using a ribbon and vividly colored beads. Her mom said she had come to spend quality time with her daughter.

Amelia Komisar-Bury, 5, and her sister Ryley, 2, made creative mixed-media compositions from pieces of rubber, feathers and glue, as their mom watched approvingly.

Greenbelt City Councilmember Leta Mach dropped by to see the arts project at the Community Center and to meet the artist. “It is important to support all kinds of activities and keep everyone involved in the community,” Mach said.

The little artful crafts created by all these folks filled a metal box that would be hidden at the nearby lake for the Greenbelt geocaching adventure to take place on Friday at 1 p.m. The lucky persons who find the box may take a treasure only if it is replaced with another treasure, according to geocaching rules.

How to Find

In geocaching, a “treasure chest” of knickknacks is hidden outdoors by an individual or a group. The location, longitude and latitude, is registered online at www.geocaching.com.

Anyone interested in finding a treasure can enter its location into a GPS device and follow the directional arrow. The device also shows the distance to the target, using four satellites to triangulate its position. Recreational GPS devices are used largely by hikers and boaters.

Geocaching took off in February 2002 and has grown exponentially worldwide, said Kelley, author of “Local Treasures: Geocaching Across America.” A geocaching excursion can be a two-block walk in an urban area or a 10-mile hike through wooded terrain, she said.

Geocaching is popular among Scouts, middle school students and home-schooled students, Kelley said. It is a good way to teach math and geography.

Artful Afternoon Offers Circus Theme

September’s Artful Afternoon, featuring circus poster making, will be held on Sunday, September 3 from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Community Center, offering an air-conditioned break from the midway during the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival.

From 1 to 3 p.m., participants will be able to imagine themselves circus stars and create a circus poster working with Maryland artist Christine Sajecki. As ringmaster for this fun, free art project Sajecki will lead participants in creating a small poster to express their alter egos.

The Community Center will be the site for display of artwork by friends and neighbors which will be on display in the Labor Day Festival’s all-hung community art shows. Displayed in the Community Center Art Gallery will be “The Works: Paintings by Christine Sajecki” capturing the whimsy and lyricism of acrobats in colorful encaustic paintings.

Open Studios from 1 to 5 p.m. gives art fans of all ages the opportunity to talk to the Community Center’s artists-in-residence as they demonstrate their work on the second floor. Scattered throughout the Community Center are whimsical sculpture displays created by community members at previous events.

From 1 to 5 p.m. guided tours of the historic home at 10-B Crescent Road, operated by the Greenbelt Museum, provide historic perspectives on Greenbelt.

Artful Afternoons are held the first Sunday of every month from 1 to 5 p.m., with hands-on art projects, performances, open studios and more. For additional information visit www.greenbeltmd.gov/ARTS or call Barbara Dickey Davis at 240-542-2062.

“Raindance” by Baltimore painter Christine Sajecki is on display in the Greenbelt Community Center Art Gallery August 26 through October 14.

GAC “Revenge” Hamlet In Al Fresco Production

by Gerald C. Martin

If you visited Buddy Attick Park on Saturday, you may have come across a troupe of strangely dressed people performing a play that seemed familiar but somewhat out of joint. The Greenbelt Arts Center’s production is an earlier and much shorter version of the “Hamlet” that is usually regarded as Shakespeare’s masterpiece. Some of the characters have different names and even the famous “to be or not to be” soliloquy is not as you remember it.

Directed by P. Ryan Anthony, “Hamlet, Revenge!” brings together a large cast of familiar faces as well as some great new talent. Thomas C. Lemole is Prince Hamlet, but this is not a melancholy Dane who broods for several hours before doing anything. He is quite eager to avenge his murdered father and not too concerned about murdering somebody else’s father in the process. As the title suggests, revenge is the over-riding concern.

Zachary Brewster-Geisz is well cast as the murderous king. He can be charming when he needs to be, but when he thinks no one is watching his evil grin is downright scary.

Nigel Parkinson, Jr., who recently made his Greenbelt debut in “Equus,” is a very spirited Laertes. His own quest for revenge leads to the duel with Hamlet (choreographed by Stephen Cox), the climax of the show.

But there is more to the show than blood and thunder. Penny Martin and Rachel Duda portray grave diggers in the style of Laurel and Hardy but also offer some down-to-earth wisdom. The traveling band of players (Alan and Rachel Duda, Cody Sanders and Sarah M. Smith) present another instance in which an amusing diversion turns serious. All of these actors are able to shift gears from comedy to tragedy without missing a beat.

The queen, Gertrud in this version, is played by Kateri Hull. The enigmatic Corambis, who became Polonius in later versions, is ably played by Sandy Irving. Horatio is played by Dennis A. Chapoval. Ofelia is played by Dena Colvin who gives backbone to this sometimes wimpy role.

Rossencraft and Gilderstone (I told you some of the names were different) are played by Heather Leigh Burns and Melissa Robinson. The minor role of Marcellus is well done by Steven Feder, who never slips out of character. Voltumar is played by Rose Smith-Rowland, Fortenbrasse by Shannon Webber, the captain by Robert Green and the priest by Don Cook. Cody Sanders is kept busy playing a sentinel, a player and a braggart. Penny Martin also appears as Montano, hit man to Corambis.

A la Shakespeare, “Hamlet, Revenge!” is performed outdoors by Greenbelt Arts Center performers. Shown here are Hamlet played by Thomas C. Lemole and Ofelia [sic] played by Dena Colvin.

The costuming of this production is very innovative: a combination of modern dress, colorful robes and a few costumes that are just plain weird. Rossencraft and Gilderstone are portrayed as Tweedle-Dee and Tweedle-Dum, which is definitely appropriate. The attractive young queen is attired in a revealing outfit that seems more suited to a harem than Denmark. It was probably designed to attract the eyes of male passersby who might otherwise keep walking. It works.

Performing outdoors is risky because so many factors cannot be controlled. Luckily, on Saturday the breeze was gentle and mild, the cell phones few and no air traffic disturbed the show. Sunday’s threatening weather caused a cancellation.

Another problem with an outdoor performance is that voices tend to be swallowed up in the open air. For the most part this cast was able to project loudly enough to be heard.

There is not a lot of character development in this show, but it does move along and entertain. So, if you want to see a rip-roaring, fast-paced show for free, visit Buddy Attick Park Saturday and Sunday at 5 p.m. through September 10 except September 2 and 3 when it will be at the Greenbelt Arts Center.

Legion Members Sought and Needed

There will be a general membership meeting of the Greenbelt American Legion Post #136 on Thursday, August 17 at 7 p.m. All members are invited to attend. The Post has a good membership base in all areas of the American Legion family and has the potential to be a successful Post though only a handful of members have been attending meetings. Meeting times were changed to accommodate member request, yet attendance remains poor.

Those who need rides are urged to call the Post at 301-345-0136 so a Legion officer can arrange transportation.

House Restores BARC Funding

Congressman Steny H. Hoyer (D-Md.) announced that the House of Representatives passed the Agriculture Appropriations bill for Fiscal Year 2007. Included in the bill is over $10 million for the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC). At Hoyer’s request, the bill included full funding for both the phytonutrients ($2.6 million) and fruit ($3.1 million) labs. President Bush had proposed closing these research facilities.

By funding both the phytonutrients and fruit labs, the House bill preserves critical research projects and 43 jobs. The Phytonutrients Laboratory focuses on biologically active compounds in fruits and vegetables which are believed to have a protective effect against heart disease and cancer.

The Fruit Laboratory is important to small fruit growers and consumers on the East Coast, from Canada to the southern states. Among other things, the laboratory develops small fruit varieties with superior qualities and improves overall fruit production traits.

“BARC researchers are addressing issues of high national priority,” Hoyer said. “This federal funding solidifies BARC’s strong roots here in Prince George’s County and sends a strong signal of commitment to this world-class facility and the talented scientists working here.”

Other BARC programs funded in this year’s appropriations bill are: Bioremediation Research, $115,000; Biomineral Soil Amendments for Nematodes, $390,001; Bovine Genetics, $1,913,866; Coffee/Cocoa Research, $790,744; Foundry Sand By-products Utilization, $185,413; Minor Use Pesticides, $73,038; and Weed Management Research, $263,597.

Additional funding was also provided for the Maryland Center for Agro-Ecology. The center’s initiatives have played an important role in the efforts to ensure that agricultural practices are in line with efforts to improve the health of the Chesapeake Bay.

BARC is the flagship of the Department of Agriculture’s Agriculture Research Service and is world-renowned for its plant and animal research capabilities. This research provides information to ensure that American food is safe and of high quality, to assess the nutritional needs of Americans, to sustain a competitive agricultural economy, to enhance the natural resource base and the environment and to provide economic opportunities for rural citizens, communities and society as a whole.

"I think people can really feel a sense of accomplishment here because you can become so actively involved," said Eichhorst, describing active community projects such as the New Deal Café and the museum development effort.

"People care about their neighbors," Eichhorst said. "I have a sense of belonging here. Maybe it's because we live so close to each other in our town homes that you just have to deal with your neighbors."

General Manager of GHI Gretchen Overdurff said that Eichhorst was an ethical and fair leader who showed great concern for her employees' well-being by developing programs to benefit Overdurff appreciated Eichhorst's professional and attentive manner of receiving member concerns, engaging people in public discussion and approaching her duties seriously and responsibly.

"She lived and breathed the co-op since coming to Greenbelt," Overdurff said.

"We will miss her tremendously," Overdurff said. "Julia has been a stable, calming influence on the organization."

"I'm always amazed," Lewis said, "that at the annual meeting of around 150 members, when anyone speaks or asks questions, Julia seems not only to know their names but the court they live in as well!"

Greenbelt Celebrates National Night Out With Activities and Community Spirit

Greenbriar residents work their information table on Hanover Parkway in the early evening. Campaign workers for Justin Ross came by to help.

Information tables, potluck dinners and neighborhood walks were organized throughout the city as part of this year's celebration of National Night Out on August 1. Residents of all ages joined Greenbelt police officers to build community spirit, generate support for anti-crime programs and strengthen police-community relations.

Similar activities have taken place throughout the country as part of the National Night Out program for the past 23 years. In 2005, more than 34 million people participated in local events. Organizers report that the program has proven to be an effective, inexpensive and fun way to build neighborhood spirit and community-police partnerships. They believe that positive activities displace negative activities and that by getting to know each other, individuals can do a tremendous amount to keep their own neighborhoods safe. Photos by Nora Simon.

The Windsor Green community center is the hot spot for the annual National Night Out potluck dinner sponsored by the home owners association and the Neighborhood Watch group.

Demitri Nader, John Kerich and John Crellin are the master chefs for Windsor Green.

52nd Annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival

"Unity through community involvement"

Dear Festival Visitor:

Welcome to the 52nd Annual Greenbelt Labor Day Festival! The City of Greenbelt is honored to host this unique community celebration, which is the largest event of its kind in the State of Maryland and provides so much enjoyment to all its citizens. Many family and friends reunions occur during this special weekend. The Festival also provides a wonderful opportunity for many of our City's non-profit, service and religious organizations to participate and make themselves known to our residents and visitors.

This Festival is organized and conducted by an independent volunteer group, the Greenbelt Labor Day Festival Committee. These dedicated citizens have worked long hours this past year to ensure that we all have a great time. We are grateful for their efforts and those of all the other community volunteers and City employees who make this event possible.

We hope you enjoy this weekend's festivities. Plan to come to all four days and take full advantage of the wide range of activities being offered, from the Opening Ceremony Friday evening to our community's Labor Day Parade on Monday. If you have any questions about the City of Greenbelt, please call us at 301-474-8000.

Best wishes for a great weekend!
